

Commitment in the Cyclin D1-drive × Ezh2-repression plane net Cyclin D1 = drive × (1 – repression); MB brake raises the threshold

Two perturbations cross the SAME boundary: mitogen withdrawal moves a cell down-and-left out of the cycle (with a few last divisions as Ezh2 falls in step); EZH2i moves an arrested MB cell straight down back into it.